Policy Work

Car Share Legislation Passes

This past Tuesday, the Board of Supervisors unanimously passed my legislation making it easier to add publicly accessible car-sharing spots in new residential developments. Improving access to car sharing is a critical component of San Francisco's quest to be a transit-first city. Even if Muni improves significantly, if we expect people to consider giving up their personal automobiles, we need to provide easy access to car sharing as well as taxis. Yet, car sharing spots are disappearing as surface parking lots and gas stations are developed. Now, more than ever, we need to encourage developers to include car sharing in housing developments.

My legislation accomplishes that goal by allowing car sharing spots to be added in new housing developments above maximum parking allotments. The Code previously treated car sharing and private auto spots identically and thus discouraged developers from adding car share spots, since to do so would reduce the already-low allotment of regular parking spots. My legislation removes this barrier and should result in more car sharing spaces as we create new housing.

Soft Story Retrofit Legislation Introduced

I recently introduced legislation, which I'm co-sponsoring with Mayor Lee and Board President David Chiu, which will require mandatory seismic retrofitting of certain soft-story buildings. These retrofits are one, which will require mandatory seismic retrofitting of certain soft-story buildings. These retrofits are essential for preserving our housing stock in a major earthquake. If these buildings collapse in an earthquake, many people will be displaced. Moreover, when the buildings are replaced with new construction, the units will no longer be rent-controlled. The legislation applies to all soft-story wood frame buildings three stories or higher, with five or more residential units, and constructed before 1978. This works out to somewhere between 2,800 and 3,000 buildings, which house approximately 58,000 residents. The next big earthquake will come - it's not a question of if - and we need to take steps to minimize damage and displacement.

HIV Budget Hearing

I recently called for a hearing, along with my co-sponsor Supervisor David Campos, on the budget picture for HIV services in San Francisco, including federal and state budget cuts and how we as a city can compensate for these cuts in our local budget. Ensuring continued funding for HIV services is critical to our health as a city. Last year, I fought hard to restore $7 million in federal HIV cuts in our city budget, and this year I will do the same. The hearing will occur at the Budget Committee in the next month or so.

Tenancy-In-Common Reform Legislation

I'm co-sponsoring, with Supervisor Mark Farrell, tenancy-in-common (TIC) reform legislation, which will provide relief to TIC owners who are caught in the condo lottery and facing significant financial hardship. The legislation was heard in committee on January 28 and will be heard again on February 25. Negotiations are underway to achieve a compromise that can pass at the Board of Supervisors. Under the legislation, TIC owners who are in the condo lottery - and to be eligible, a building must be owner-occupied and cannot have had any Ellis Act evictions - can pay a $20,000 fee per unit and convert to condos. These accumulated fees convert to condos. These accommodated fees, which are estimated to be in the millions, will be used as a dedicated revenue source for affordable housing development. Only buildings that are already in the lottery can participate in this legislation. About 85 % of the units at issue are owner-occupied, and the small number of tenants who live in the units will automatically receive lifetime leases - i.e., they cannot be evicted except for the usual causes under rent control and cannot have their rent raised more than rent control allows.

Street Furniture Hearing

News racks, kiosks, and the new Muni bus shelters, while all serving important purposes, can cause blockages on city sidewalks and impede pedestrian access. I recently called for a hearing to discuss the current state of these structures and what can be done to reduce their numbers. The challenges with these structures are varied: they reduce usable sidewalk space, many news racks are empty, some kiosks block pedestrian access and reduce visibility, and Muni shelters are so wide that, in some locations, they can block most of a sidewalk. Contractual terms with the city contractors who install and maintain these structures can make it challenging to remove or change problem structures. We need to step back, look at our strategies around pedestrian access on our sidewalks, and figure out how to reduce the number of these structures and ensure better placement.

Better Market Street Hearing

The Better Market Street Plan is a visionary effort to transform Market Street east of Octavia Boulevard and to make it the inviting and vibrant street it should be and used to be. The Plan has had a number of delays, and it was recently announced that bike access may be altered, with a focus on biking on Mission Street instead of Market Street. As a result, I called for a hearing to receive an update on the plan and its timing, as well as these recent changes.

Twin Peaks Tavern Named Historic Landmark

Recently, the Board of Supervisors passed legislation that I sponsored declaring Twin Peaks Tavern a historic landmark. I invited the owners of the Tavern to join the ceremony where Mayor Ed Lee signed this into law. As the first known gay bar to feature full length open plate glass windows, the Twin Peaks Tavern has been a visible beacon in the LGBT movement for over 40 years. Today it is a gathering place where everyone joins together to celebrate our community. Congratulations to the Twin Peaks Tavern for this great honor.

Community Updates

Public Safety Meetings and Hearing

Recent crime trends in the district are of great concern to me and to many others. On January 28th, I held a public safety meeting for the Castro/Upper Market area where representatives from Mission, Park and Northern Police Stations, the District Attorney's Office, SF Safe, the Sisters of Perpetual Indulgence and community organizations discussed crime trends and prevention strategies. On Tuesday February 19th, I will be convening a similar meeting for the Noe Valley and Glen Park neighborhoods. The meeting will take place at Horace Mann Middle School at 7:00pm. For more details, please contact my office at (415) 554-6968. I also held a hearing on street and transit robberies -- especially those related to smartphone and tablet robberies - at the Board of Supervisors. At this meeting, the police, Muni, and the District Attorney's Office reported on the uptick in this type of robbery, on our streets and on our trains and buses.

Castro Street Design Update

I recently obtained the funding necessary to implement the long-desired widening of the Castro Street sidewalks, as well as other pedestrian upgrades on this critical thoroughfare. The first public design workshop for the project took place on January 23 at the Eureka Valley Recreation Center. More than 150 people, in addition to city staff responsible for the design and implementation of the project, attended. Staff provided an overview of existing conditions and a draft conceptual design. Attendees then broke out into small groups to brainstorm about what they liked and didn't like and which elements of the design proposal should be prioritized. City staff have also presented at various neighborhood organizations.

More than 130 people submitted written surveys, which were distributed at each community meeting and posted online. The design team anticipates coming back to the community in mid-March to obtain feedback on the refined design and discuss details such as landscaping, lighting, public art, and other design elements. To stay up to date on the project, please follow me on Twitter @ScottWasserman.

Noe Valley Town Square Update

The exciting Noe Valley Town Square project is moving forward. The proposed town square will be at the parking lot on 24th Street that houses the Noe Valley Farmers Market on Saturdays. Noe Valley Ministries, which owns the lot, needs to sell it to finance its long-overdue renovation. If we are unable to purchase the lot for transformation into a public plaza, it likely will be sold to a developer and turned into condominiums. I'm working closely with folks in the neighborhood to ensure that we retain this public space and turn it into a beautiful town square. Leaders in the neighborhood - whom I recently I honored at the Board of Supervisors - have already raised nearly $500,000 toward the effort. I'm working with the Recreation and Park Department to utilize funds from our Open Space Acquisition Fund to help with the purchase. This project is a great example of people in a neighborhood coming together to preserve open space and working with city government to accomplish that goal.

Dolores Park Rehabilitation Open House

The much-anticipated renovation of Dolores Park is finally moving forward. After nearly a year of environmental review, Recreation and Park staff presented a slightly revised design to the community at a February 6th open house.. The lack of significant changes after a year of environmental review is a testament to the thoughtfulness and balance of the community's design plan. It also speaks to the inspired work of the project team. Under the phased construction plan, the project will take place in two six month stages beginning in Fall 2013. For the first six months, the southern half of the park will be rehabilitated, with the northern half remaining open. In the second stage, beginning Spring 2014, the northern half of the park will be rehabilitated, with the southern half open. The new Helen Diller Playground will remain open throughout construction.

Glen Canyon Project Update

The long-awaited Glen Canyon recreation project began in early January. When complete, the project will feature improvements to the tennis courts, children's play area, recreation center, landscaping, and Elk Street entrance. To date, the tennis courts and their surrounding retaining walls, as well as the old children's play equipment, have been removed to make way for the new courts, playground and other amenities. As you may know, the old play equipment was made of pressure treated lumber, which had chemicals such as arsenic in the wood. Though they were sealed by the city on a regular basis, it will be great to get new equipment in the new playground! Some of the park's benches and tables have been removed for safekeeping; they will be returned when the renovation nears completion. Assuming there are no additional delays, the project is anticipated to be completed in November 2013. For more information, visit the project's website or contact Karen Mauney-Brodek at karen.maueny-brodek@sfgov.org or (415) 575-5601.

In addition, thanks to the voters' passage of the parks bond this past November, we also have $12 million to complete the renovation of the decrepit Glen Canyon Rec Center. The community planning process for this project will begin later this year.

Fun Volunteer Opportunity in the Castro: Castro Ambassadors

Are you looking for a volunteer opportunity that's fun, helps the neighborhood, and gets you outside meeting people? Castro Ambassadors is recruiting for the 2013 season. Last year, Castro Ambassadors helped close to 5,000 tourists, providing them with information about the neighborhood and places to explore. Join the Castro Ambassadors and be part of a fun and dynamic team of friendly people. The Ambassador season runs from mid May to late October. The program provides volunteers with training, great materials/handouts specifically developed for the program, and a uniform. Think you might be interested? African-American Read-In

I kicked off Black History month in our schools by reading to Mr. Zarate's 2nd grade class at Fairmount Elementary School. I brought an illustrated book about Martin Luther King's life and talked with the students about the importance of his legacy. The event was part of the national African American Read-In coordinated locally by the San Francisco Education Fund. If you are interested in joining next year's read-in or would like more information about volunteering in our schools please visit the Education Fund website www.sfedfund.org and click on "volunteer".

Parking Tax Simplification and Amnesty Workshops

February 20th

5:00pm

March 18th

5:00pm

Golden Gate Room

Fort Mason

Marina Boulevard at Buchanan Street

The San Francisco Apartment Association and the Treasurer and Tax Collector's office will be offering a free class to educate housing providers on the registration process to qualify for the Parking Tax Amnesty. As background, my legislation amended the San Francisco Business and Tax Regulations Code to relieve residential property owners and managers who rent five or fewer parking spaces to non-residents from the requirements to obtain a certificate of authority, make monthly tax prepayments, and obtain a parking tax bond. The legislation also provides a partial amnesty from parking taxes, interest, penalties and fees, allows parking spaces to be leased to persons living off-site anywhere in the City, and eliminates the requirement for residential property owners and managers to hold and register a commercial parking permit and pay the Revenue Control Equipment compliance fee as previously required. Please RSVP with the San Francisco Apartment Association at (415) 255-2288.

San Francisco Neighborhoods: Then and Now

Thursday February 21

7:30am-9:00am

We Work SOMA

156 2nd Street

Neighborhoods are part of our daily lives. At the heart of every neighborhood are its people, and at the heart of each person is a home. Who are the people who built San Francisco's neighborhoods? What held the neighborhood together? What happens to a neighborhood when people are struggling? How do we rebuild a neighborhood? To discuss these issues and more, join a breakfast discussion led by Charles Fracchia, Founder and President Emeritus of the SF Museum and Historical Society and David Baker, Architect and Urbanist at David Baker + Partners. District 8 Friends of the Urban Forest Planting

Saturday, February 23rd

9:00am-1:00pm

3720 23rd Street (at Dolores)

Please join me at this neighborhood tree planting where, with the help of Friends of the Urban Forest, we will be planting street trees in the district. Friends of the Urban Forest helps individuals and neighborhood groups plant and care for street trees and sidewalk gardens in San Francisco. This "green infrastructure" improves the city by beautifying neighborhoods, cleaning the air, raising property values and reducing polluted stormwater runoff. Since 1981, FUF has planted more than 47,000 trees, totaling 43% of San Francisco's street tree canopy.

Chinese New Year Festival and Parade

Saturday, February 23rd

6:00pm-8:00pm

Starts at Market Street and 2nd Street

A San Francisco tradition since just after the Gold Rush, the parade continues to delight and entertain the many hundreds of thousands of people that come to watch it on the street or tune in to watch it on television on KTVU Fox 2 or KTSF Channel 26. Nowhere in the world will you see a lunar new year parade with more gorgeous floats, elaborate costumes, ferocious lions, exploding firecrackers, and of course the newly crowned Miss Chinatown U.S.A. and her court.
