4 through 53.4 to: 1) establish an Urban Agriculture Program to oversee and coordinate 5 all of the City's Urban Agriculture activities; and 2) adopt goals for the City related to 6 Urban Agriculture.

11 Be it ordained by the People of the City and County of San Francisco:

12 Section 1. Findings. The Board of Supervisors finds and declares as follows:

13 1. Urban agriculture provides multiple benefits to San Franciscans. It connects City 14 residents to the broader food system, provides green space and recreation, can save public 15 agencies money, provides ecological benefits and green infrastructure, builds community, and 16 offers food access, public health, and economic development potential.

17 2. San Franciscans have consistently demonstrated a demand for more space in 18 which they can grow food. While private land offers some possibilities, public land is more 19 likely to meet the demand. Land audits have surveyed potential sites and revealed that there 20 is public land suitable for urban agriculture.

21 3. Access to land, materials, and supportive infrastructure are the top needs for people 22 and groups interested in increasing food production within the City. Land access is critical for 23 many residents living in apartments and other dense areas without access to open space for 24 growing food. Access to materials would make it easier for urban gardeners and farmers to 25 acquire basic resources such as mulch, compost, and tools. To prosper, those growing and

1 selling produce in the City also require supportive infrastructure, such as access to water,
2 distribution channels, facilities for processing and serving food, and educational opportunities
3 for aspiring gardeners.

4 4. At least seven City agencies provide funding for urban agriculture activities. In the 5 past five years, total funding from the City has averaged approximately $580,000 per year.
6 The lack of coordination among agencies has led to an overall decline in City resources for 7 urban agriculture activities relative to the funding level of the 1990s. Additionally, agencies 8 such as the Planning Department, Port, Library Department, and the County Agricultural 9 Commissioner support urban agriculture, though they currently do not provide funding.

10 5. The City currently lacks institutional support for urban agriculture. There is no 11 full-time staff person dedicated to this issue and no citywide cross-departmental urban 12 agriculture agenda. This lack of cohesion and accountability has created uncoordinated and 13 duplicative urban agriculture efforts thus far.

14 6. The City has taken important steps forward with the Executive Directive on Healthy 15 and Sustainable Food in 2009 and the passage of the Urban Agriculture Zoning Ordinance in 16 2011. However, much more remains to be done.

18 Section 2. The San Francisco Administrative Code is hereby amended by adding 19 Chapter 53, Sections 53.1 through 53.4, to read as follows:
