As a cross-racial group of organizations that serve immigrant families at the intersection of education equity, immigrant rights, and civic engagement, the Immigrant Parent Voting Collaborative was formed in 2018 with CAA as the lead and fiscal agent, joined by African Advocacy Network, the Arab Resource and Organizing Center, the Central American Resource Center, Coleman Advocates for Children and Youth, La Raza Community Resource Center, Mission Economic Development Agency, and Mission Graduates. Each year the collaborative receives $250,000 that comes through OCEIA. Over the last few years, the IPVC has been conducting education and outreach on non-citizen voting, working closely with the Department of Elections, SFUSD, and OCEIA to ensure that implementation is equitable and accessible to all immigrant families; and training immigrant parents to become civically engaged and active in conducting outreach for education issues. During the special election the Board of Supervisors supported a supplemental increase of an additional $250,000 (bringing the collaborative to $500,000 for FY 21-22) for IPVC to conduct our work leading up to the recall election, which due to legislation passed in December 2021, non-citizens were newly eligible to vote in. With the increase in funds, IPVC was able to expand our capacity and solidify new strategies for upcoming elections. We saw a 9 fold increase in non-citizen voter registration for the special election. As we move forward, IPVC would like to continue building on our current work to include new areas of work such as: technical assistance, including the development of a toolkit, for immigrant serving CBOs and citywide institutions to inform them of non-citizen voting; increasing opportunities for immigrant parents to engage in education issues by encouraging participation in SFUSD events and communications and education focused civic engagement events; and access to immigrant legal services through referrals and joint clinics hosted with other immigration legal service providers and collaboratives. CounterPulse is an outgrowth of 848 Community Space, an organization that produced cutting-edge performance throughout the 1990's. Founded in 1991 by a collective of artists with the goal of providing an accessible and affordable space for artists of all disciplines. In 2002, 848 Community Space expanded by merging with its fiscal sponsor, the Bay Area Center for Art and Technology to form CounterPulse. In spring 2005, CounterPulse moved to a larger facility in the SOMA. In 2016 CounterPulse moved yet again to a larger, fully renovated facility through a partnership with the Community Arts Stabilization Trust. The facility includes a state-of-the-art black box theater, two studios, and a gallery space. The relocation has raised the profile of the organization to international acclaim, positioning CounterPulse as a model for how the arts can drive equitable development in changing cities. CounterPulse dedicates institutional capacity to listening and responding to community challenges/opportunities as a long-standing part of CounterPulse's legacy of producing world-class and critically acclaimed dance and performance at the intersection of art and activism. Residency, commissioning, co-production, fiscal sponsorship, and subsidized rentals work in concert to sprout the careers of marginalized artists by providing access to income, marketing/production support, and free space/below-market rental rates. CounterPulse provides rare and much-needed performance space to new and established artists to feature new works that haven't premiered anywhere else.	D6

As a leading social service provider in San Francisco's Tenderloin neighborhood, we believe in food for all — no exceptions, no exclusions. Our Daily Free Meals program has no eligibility requirements, providing three nutritious meals a day, 364 days a year. The economic consequences of the COVID-19 pandemic have only made it harder for low-income San Franciscans to meet their basic needs, and we are proud of our longstanding, collaborative partnership with the City and County of San Francisco to help meet the true need of missing meals. > GLIDE's Budget Request for FY2022-2023: $956,624 The effects of the lingering pandemic, well-documented supply chain issues, rising inflation, and high food prices impact us at GLIDE every day. The current reimbursement rate for GLIDE's Daily Free Meals contract is $3.65 per meal. While the reimbursement rate has never covered the full cost per meal, the true cost is now significantly greater at $10.23 per meal, an increase of 81 percent since entering the current contract in 2021. With inflation, we expect food costs to continue rising into 2023. Last year, in partnership with the Department of Disability and Aging Services, we were contracted to serve 390,000 meals. We far outpaced the contract and served over half a million meals to individuals and families — and that's citywide. Meanwhile, the Department of Homelessness and Supportive Housing has informed some shelters and navigation centers that they will be cutting back on meal expenses; providers have been told that their clients should take advantage of existing meals programs — like GLIDE — which could result in significantly increased need. People with HIV have the fourth highest rate of homelessness in SF, which is five times higher than Los Angeles or New York City. In December 2019, Mayor London Breed announced the first new HIV subsidies in San Francisco in 12 years, created through HESPA's advocacy and the support of the Board of Supervisors. Even with that infusion, the HIV communities have 24% fewer subsidy slots today than just five years ago. This request builds on that critical first investment in reaching for equity for the HIV+ community by providing 300 rent subsidy slots to prevent eviction or help people secure new housing. This investment will bring us back to our 2018 subsidy levels. Subsidy-eligible households will participate in a housing navigator program that automatically submits all housing applications for which they are eligible to apply. This request is in keeping with a main component of the City's internationally recognized Getting To Zero policy to prevent and end homelessness and housing instability as a means of curbing the transmission of the virus.  Seniors and people with HIV living in SRC's are at increased risk to COVID-19 and are disproportionately people of color. These rent subsidies will also help seniors and HIV+ people move to safer housing options.	D1, D2, D3, D4, D5, D6, D7, D8, D9, D10, D11

Yet only 11% of women experiencing homelessness in San Francisco can access women-only transitional & permanent housing options. With more than 50% of unsheltered women over the age of 50, long-term, supportive housing options are desperately needed in our city.  The Women's Housing Coalition, a group of five SF-based women's services providers and advocacy organizations, proposes adding 60 subsidies to support the opening of a new, female-identified housing site called the Women's Center. Alongside general Permanent Supportive Housing (PSH) units, there will be rooms allotted to older adults with acute medical conditions so that targeted care would be available. This program would also require move-in grants as well as support services staff in order to be successful.  The Women's Center would hold a Harm Reduction orientation throughout the building by maintaining the status of "real housing," while offering a sober housing option to those who require or prefer a Sober Living Environment (SLE), with one floor being allocated to this population. The additional units will be redesigned to accommodate medical and mental health staff offices and/or meeting rooms as well as a community space for gatherings. This building would also include HIV Care rooms and Transitional Shelter rooms.  The Women's Center would take a holistic approach by making medical and mental health services available to all clients, including individual and group therapies. With the addition of a community room, social support opportunities, including groups, classes and outings, will be offered to establish a close-knit environment that fosters recovery.  The City's housing portfolio depends heavily on a limited number of Rapid Rehousing (RRH) subsidies, a time-limited subsidy model that typically displaces families outside the city and requires them to increase their incomes significantly over the 12- to 24-month period of the subsidy. RRH has helped some families permanently end their homelessness; these families retain stable housing month over month after their rental subsidy ends.  For other families, RRH represents the most available option in the system, not necessarily the most effective option. The City's coordinated entry system tends to match the highest-need families with the most available options, so high-need families regularly get referred to RRH, even though it is not a good match for their needs. RRH subsidies leave behind families who cannot increase their incomes in a relatively short period of time, including and especially mothers fleeing domestic violence.  This need-based subsidy will provide 24 families fleeing domestic violence with a deeper level of support than a typical RRH subsidy, ensuring a safe and stable transition to independent housing. The subsidy combines deep, ongoing rental assistance with landlord support and tenant services, including intensive case management.  Families of color who represent more than 80% of families experiencing homelessness locally should be prioritized.	D1, D2, D3, D4, D5, D6, D7, D8, D9, D10, D11

This was challenging enough before the pandemic, and in its aftermath, families are navigating the same low-wage work & COVID-vulnerable sectors, some of them with tens of thousands of dollars in back rent debt.  Additionally, the City's coordinated entry system typically matches the highest-need families with the most available housing inventory—meaning that the families who will be most challenged to increase their incomes are getting referred to RRH instead of need-based subsidies or PSH, which would be a better match for their needs. Family access points typically see families with high needs returning to access points when their RRH subsidies end (particularly the 12-month subsidies), speaking to the need for longer-term subsidies as well as for more supportive housing in the family system.  To maximize the return on investment the City has already made in RRH, we need flexible funds to extend RRH subsidies, so that higher-need families can make a stable transition from RRH subsidies without returning to homelessness when the subsidy tapers off.  This request will provide 100 families in the City's RRH portfolio with need-based subsidy extensions. There are no associated staffing costs because families already have assigned RRH case managers.  We are advocating separately for the City to deploy more need-based subsidies and PSH for families, and for the coordinated entry system to match families to housing based on the best fit for family needs. Yet when trans people seek support services, they often encounter the same dynamics of exclusion that contributed to job loss or housing deprivation in the first place. In San Francisco and nationwide, trans people need comprehensive support and safe housing. In response to years of advocacy by transgender communities, San Francisco has taken promising first steps toward ending the crisis of transgender homelessness. Our Trans Home SF has successfully advocated for rental subsidies, housing navigators, and other crucial changes, but gaps in the city's homeless service system still disproportionately harm trans people, and dire unmet needs remain. The transgender community, especially transgender people of color, are hit hardest by homelessness. In San Francisco, transgender individuals are 18 times more likely to experience homelessness.  Due to racialized gender profiling and disproportionate criminalization of survival and earning strategies, transgender participants' daily lives were often shaped by law enforcement. Forty-five percent of respondents of currently homeless transgender participants in the "Revolving Door" study reported having experienced violence perpetrated by police officers and 33% (13/40) of Trans-safes participants experienced police violence, including in their countries of origin. For many, mental health challenges stemmed from past and ongoing exposure to violence. Eighty-five percent of Trans-safes participants had applied for asylum in the U.S. and had overlapping and unmet legal and mental healthcare needs, including gender-affirming and linguistically competent therapists who could help with asylum cases.  Although they are the most affected by housing deprivation, the needs of transgender people, and especially trans women of color, are frequently marginalized in housing and homelessness policy. City departments have been slow to roll out new family housing subsidies and equally slow to make family PSH acquisitions, despite the Prop C acquisition target of 350-450 total units for homeless families. In August 2021, the City added 15 emergency rooms at the Oasis Inn—a private-room shelter program operated by Providence Foundation following the closure of First Friendship family shelter in July 2020—but those rooms are typically oversubscribed with unsheltered families.  It is also worth noting that family access points could refer medically fragile families to medical hotel rooms before the pandemic (and to the City's shelter-in-place hotel for families, now closed, during the pandemic), but those medical hotel rooms no longer exist.  The broader population of unsheltered families are living in their cars and other precarious situations while they languish on the individual-room shelter waitlist, which has ranged from 60 to 80 families at any given time in the early months of 2022. Outreach and access point workers do not always reach the most disconnected families—especially vehicularly housed families—and some are accessing help informally, even by parking near the Buena Vista Horace Mann (BVMH) Stay Over Program, a congregate shelter in a school gym that is open to unsheltered families enrolled with the school district.  This request will fill a critical service gap for unsheltered families who contact family access points, drop-in centers, and shelter programs looking for a place to stay tonight. During this first meeting, the case manager will be able to learn about the family's current situation and barriers to housing. Every family's experience with homelessness is different, so the time the case manager spends building a relationship with the family and learning about their unique needs is critical. Implementing trauma-informed approaches to care in emergency services may help services staff engage persons experiencing homelessness more effectively, improve outcomes for unsheltered people, and potentially reduce costs for health care and more intensive social services.  As it relates to BIPOC communities, trauma cannot be addressed entirely at an individual level. A framework to address the impact of unresolved historical trauma and structural violence must be adopted. It requires an understanding of not only how trauma impacts the lives of persons experiencing poverty and homelessness, but the root causes behind that trauma. Institutional funders must support grassroots organizations led by people of color to access funding sources from which they have been historically excluded. Many human services providers find themselves at a critical moment of self-examination, unpacking the many-layered impact of structural racism on communities served, and its effect on staff who share a common history and lived experience with those communities.  BIPOC-led grassroots organizations must have sufficient funding, support, incentives, and training opportunities to adapt their structures, policies, practices, and cultures to their racial justice work. BIPOC-led organizations need resources to invest in leadership development that values lived experience and representation of communities served at the highest levels of organizational leadership and governance. The investments in training and leadership development—through trauma-informed and trauma-responsive approaches—yields long-term benefits for individuals, organizations, and communities of color throughout the City's homeless response system. In shelter and respite center settings, HSH recently proposed reducing daily meal allowances to only two meals per day as part of the shelter renovation plan. Even with SNAP benefits—which can be difficult to maintain for unsheltered individuals and TAY-headed families—access to food resources, especially on the weekends, is limited. Moreover, emerging research shows that the complicated commutes that TAY who are unsheltered and food insecure must manage in order to navigate food pantries and meal programs puts them at high risk for exposure to violence as they traverse the city to access resources to meet their basic needs.  This proposal would set aside funds specifically for TAY providers in the homeless response system to buttress their food budgets, ensure three meals a day in shelter and navigation center settings, and provide grocery cards for easier access when drop-in and meal programs are closed on the weekends. In 2019, the Stockton Economic Empowerment Demonstration (SEED) provided 125 people with $500 per month, no strings attached. In March 2021, researchers released a report on the first year of the two-year study, covering data from November 2018 through February 2020. The report documented that most recipients spent their money on food and necessities, the cash payments helped them absorb unplanned burdens like car repairs and sick days, and recipients reported less anxiety, fatigue, and pain compared to a control group. And notably, the rate of full-time employment among recipients jumped 12 percentage points over the course of the year.  This request will pilot a modest direct cash transfer program for Black or undocumented unsheltered families, providing 100 families with $1,200 per month for one year. Black, immigrant, and undocumented families have experienced some of the worst impacts of the pandemic—working essential low-wage jobs in close contact with the general public, or losing much or all of their income because they worked jobs in COVID-vulnerable sectors like hospitality and retail—and need to none of the relief. We know that it is much more cost effective to keep people in their current housing rather than to allow them to become homeless. Not only is it more cost effective, but it is also more dignified. While the City has provided modest amounts of funding for housing subsidies for targeted populations (i.e., seniors and persons with disabilities) we believe that the City can do more. We propose the beginning of a City funded "Section 8" subsidy program with a new allocation of $10,000,000. While we still propose to target seniors and adults with disabilities, we would hope that the City can build on this program and address the housing needs of other communities over time. This funding can be used both to keep folks in their current affordable housing and to enable some to exit homelessness and move into new affordable housing. A local subsidy program would not be encumbered by federal restrictions and could be neatly tailored to flexibly address local needs. Seniors and persons with disabilities are disproportionately represented in the homeless population. A comparison of the homeless count and census data shows that more than 11% of the disabled adult population in SF is homeless, the second highest rate in the City. In addition, there are an estimated 1,000 senior and disabled adult households in San Francisco paying 70% or more of their income toward rent. These rent subsidies will also help seniors and persons with disabilities to move to safer housing options. Seniors and people living with disabilities, including HIV, living in SROs are at increased risk of becoming infected by COVID and are disproportionately people of color. According to the current San Francisco HIV Housing Plan, there are 2560 HIV+ households who are homeless or severely rent burdened. It is impossible for people living with HIV who are unsheltered to manage their health. Their health is at risk, but they are also more likely to transmit the virus to others, thus housing subsidies not only improve the health of individuals living with HIV, but they help the City to reduce the number of new HIV infections. Shelter operators report a range of symptoms in young residents ranging from bedwetting and nightmares to eating problems: children experiencing such a loss of control in their family life will exert control over their food and snacks, whether it be hoarding, overeating, or under-eating to cope with the stress in their families' lives.  These symptoms are manageable, and healing is possible, with trauma-informed interventions like therapy onsite and on demand. In late 2019, DHSH funded a mobile therapy program with a team of well-trained therapists, including bilingual therapists, serving families at approximately 25 DHSH-funded shelter and residential sites operated by about 12 nonprofit service providers. Locally, more than 300,000 San Franciscans have applied for unemployment benefits since the pandemic began—a number approaching half the City's adult population! This means that the pool of potential homeless people is more than 300,000 residents. For San Francisco's economic recovery to succeed, we must redirect our training approach from unstable sectors that 1) pay insufficient wages to support workers and families, and/or 2) are the most vulnerable during an economic downturn. Additionally, we must prioritize paid training and/or apprenticeships as foundational. For most job seekers currently experiencing homelessness, unpaid training options are neither feasible nor practical. HESPA's proposed new training models to San Francisco's current workforce investments include a cost-effective and timely investment in individualized training accounts (ITAs)—with a focus on earning while learning or paid training. ITAs are currently available for a small number of job seekers through the federal Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA). However, WIOA's restrictive requirements for eligible training providers and prescriptive hoops for job seekers limit both effectiveness and utilization. Most importantly, training funds generally do not compensate trainees for participation—i.e., earning while learning. Building upon last year's modest success in piloting this approach, the FY 20-21 HESPA proposal recommends investing local dollars to rebuild, reinvest, and stabilize our workforce training infrastructure—with greater local flexibility not tied to federal restrictions. By expanding our existing training capacity, we can augment tailored training options for homeless job seekers, increase community-based capacity for earn-as-you-learn training and apprenticeships, and expand skills-building opportunities in emerging sectors as diverse as COVID-19 vaccine	D1, D2, D3, D4, D5, D6, D7, D8, D9, D10, D11

As summarized on page 5, this housing program can advance racial equity through greater housing stability and personal savings for BIPOC, household ownership options, and preference programs focused on households displaced by redevelopment, state-sponsored displacement, gentrification, or climate change - past, present, and future. We believe particular attention should focus on the Latinx community in the Mission, the Black community in the Western Addition, Bayview, and Tenderloin, the Ramayash Ohlone people, Native Americans of all tribes, Indigenous communities, Pacific Islanders, and undocumented immigrants throughout the city (with strict privacy protections). This request is also part of a larger group of recommendations ( https://sf.gov/sites/default/files/2022-04/HSF_OB%20Recommendations%20FY%202022-23%20%28Approved%29.pdf ) submitted by the Housing Stability Fund (Prop I social housing) Oversight Board. These recommendations include allocating $3M to all studies and additional MOHCD staffing (p. 4, Section 4, first bullet), including studying the "creation of a municipally-run housing agency" (our focus). The project is a collaborative of three CBOs, where the largest is including two organizations founded and led by black men with lived experience of incarceration. Our goal is to secure a 60 bedroom hotel that will serve as a housing site for one of the most marginalized populations in San Francisco where training, wrap around services and employment opportunities will be offered on site.	3,100,000	3.1million	Ongoing- with the same funding amount each year	SF Sheriff Homelessness and supportive housing	A new program or initiative (not previously funded by the City and County)	This budget request advances racial equity in two major ways. First, we are proposing to provide supportive housing and job opportunities to people on SF Pretrial's caseload as an alternative to incarceration. It is essential for the City/County to create a variety of alternatives to incarceration because of the disparate impact the current system of policing, arrest and incarceration has on black and brown communities. Second, this program serves the important purpose of building the capacity of two black-led organizations to provide community place based services, which in turn, should support the City's commitment to equity in public contracting. This year we were able to provide school funds for an additional contract with Mission Graduates to fund this work, but next year no school funds are available.	$60,000	$60,000	One-Time	San Francisco	Continuing support for a program that has expiring funding	Our partnership with Mission Graduates has been critical in boosting the graduation rate of our Latinx students from 69% in 2012 to 93% in 2020, and bonding the graduation rate of African American students to exceed the district average. Right now, we are looking for an additional $60K to continue the Mission Graduates support for our two Student Success Coaches and additional outreach from our Community Relations Specialist. This is in addition to the request submitted by Mission Graduates since this work was previously site funded. Student Success Coaches work directly with students in the classroom to support positive attendance, strong literacy skills, social-emotional growth, and content area mastery in the 9th and 10th grades. Student Success Coaches are recruited by our community partners to reflect the diversity of our student body. They build our school capacity for culturally responsive instruction by co-planning and co-teaching daily alongside content area teachers on innovative "Integrated House" teams dedicated to ensuring the academic success and college/career readiness of historically underserved students. Student success coaches also support an innovative college and career program with personalized support for students to explore and persist in post-secondary goals. Our Community Relations Specialist serves as a life coach for our most at-risk students, including those experiencing community violence. By mentoring these students, strengthening and developing family partnerships, and promoting healthy lifestyle education, our Community Relations Specialist is an invaluable member of our counseling team. Their work includes fostering systems and structures to support staff and family communication, and supporting staff and families to work together so that our most struggling students graduate with a postsecondary plan. The Community Relations Specialist is also responsible for conducting community assistance to low income LEP and small businesses in applying for public benefits, grants, unemployment, covid relief, and other income maintenance issues. LEP applicants for assistance are barred by English only procedures, forms, and assistance. Even with telephone translation, applicants need one on one assistance in their language of choice to complete successful applications. Community based outreach is required to encourage applications for public benefits. Will serve 65.	D9

Funds will support events and a process to build internal capacity in order to better engage community partners, support artists, and to build organizational capacity. Through this initiative, First Voice will strengthen community, revitalize neighborhoods and contribute new works to the Asian American cultural canon. Why: Program should be funded to support the sustainability, diversity of artists and grow the living cultural and historic legacy of Japantown. With the gentrification of the community, many artists have been displaced from Japantown and during the pandemic, many Japantown institutions and businesses have also been displaced. This program serves as a vehicle to perpetuate living culture and inject fresh energy and vitality to Japantown and the San Francisco AAPI community.	D1, D2, D3, D4, D5, D6, D7, D8, D9, D10, D11

(JTF) provides neighborhood capacity through facilitation, collaboration, and coordination to implement the goals and objectives of the Japanese Cultural Heritage and Economic Sustainability Strategy (JCHES). JTF has a successful track record of strengthening neighborhood and economic vitality and building upon already existing efforts led by key stakeholders including the Japantown Community Benefit District. The JTF's marketing and business assistance activities includes marketing for neighborhood, individual business technical assistance, business advice and referrals, direct economic support in the form of grants and the development of communication tools to support accessibility to business resources and city services. JTF also supports the economic development of Japantown through improvement of physical conditions, quality of life, and community organizing. JTF is currently actively involved in the design and construction of the Pease Plaza Renovation project, coordinating the process for the Buchanan Street Mall, supporting COVID recovery for the small businesses, merchants and Japantown as a whole. The Center for Social and Economic Justice acts as an incubator for emerging community organizations, facilitates new coalitions between existing community organizations, promotes collaboration and mutual support between community organizations, and provides workspace, meeting space and support services to community-serving organizations. The Center provides to community organizations shared resources such as managerial support, promotion services, subsidized use of theaters, gallery and production space. It also provides collective marketing, planning and cross-organizational development to community organizations. The Center provides to community organizations a management commons, dedicated to creating equitable access to an infrastructure of shared resources that they need to flourish. There are nearly 5,000 non-profit workers who are performing public services under City contract. These include desk clerks and janitorial staff at supportive housing, and staff at homeless shelters, after school and summer programs for youth, senior programming, homeless support, violence prevention and mental health services. There is a mass exodus of workers from these low wage positions because they are either struggling to not be displaced from San Francisco or have been forced out to Antioch or Pittsburg, or even farther environs like Tracy, Modesto and Stockton. As the minimum wage rises in the rest of California, they are at the point that it is not longer worth the hours commute to work in San Francisco, even though the minimum wage is higher. Some non-profits are seeing a staff turnover as high as 40 percent. The Minimum Compensation Ordinance wage rate will increase 3.211 percent with the Bay Area Consumer Price Index on July 1, 2022, by $ .56 per hour to $17.90 per hour, only if the city appropriates funds to city-funded nonprofit organizations for the increases and the Controller certifies that such funds are sufficient to pay for the increase. Around $1.375 million is needed for direct costs of raising wages to at least $17.90 per hour which includes an additional 25 percent for indirect cost factors such as employer-paid taxes and benefits. Around $24 million is needed for allocating funding to non-profits for wage compaction, that is the effect of pushing up wages that are already above the new minimum rate for all those earning up to $30 per hour. This also includes an additional 25 percent for indirect cost factors such as employer-paid taxes and benefits.	D1, D2, D3, D4, D5, D6, D7, D8, D9, D10, D11

CCSF Women's and Gender Studies student peer educators lead a two-day curriculum and CBO providers provide a third day of content on related topics. These funds would help address programming gaps following two years of remote learning and staff transitions, and help increase planning and collaboration capacity with the district and other city-funded non-profits doing gender justice work, as well as direct work with student leaders in SFUSD, especially the Youth Outreach Workers at Mission High School. The funds would pay student workers from CCSF presenting in all SFUSD high schools and Youth Outreach Workers at Mission High working as gender based violence prevention peer educators as well as for 0.25 coordination time to support coordination with the district and bring together youth leaders and CBO providers to support youth leadership development, prevention education, PD, and advocacy on issues of gender based violence prevention. This effort addresses racial equity by training majority Black and brown students at MHS and CCSF as leaders and educators in paid leadership roles in the fight against sexual violence. It also advances racial equity and educational access using preventative, anti-oppression based approaches to ending interpersonal and gender-based violence to combat school pushout for victims and perpetrators of sexual harassment. The city budget allocation we receive provides partial annual support for our YouthAware touring and residency theatre-education programs serving the San Francisco Unified School District. These programs typically reach 15,000 to 17,000 students annually in grades K-12 using theatre as the instrument to bring awareness to and create dialogue around social justice, mindfulness, gender identity, sexual orientation, peer pressure, bullying, cross-cultural learning, empathy, and health/wellbeing. It is through the school/students served, artists involved and script content that the YouthAware program advances racial equity. YouthAware's message is one of creating a more compassionate and equitable society through acceptance and the celebration of diversity.  As the world responds there is an increased demand for YouthAware's theatre-education programs. Teachers and students are back in their classrooms and hungry for dynamic, relevant, innovative, wildly engaging health and wellness programs. In order to keep pace with this demand we have added a new full time staff member to our education team. 4/29/2022 13:16:52	marlina@missionculturalcenter.org	Mission Cultural Center for Latino Arts	Dr. Martina Ayala	marlina@missionculturalcenter.org		No		This submission is not part of a coalition request. We are requesting funding to support the temporary relocation of Mission Cultural Center for Latino Arts. MCCLA will be undergoing seismic retrofitting and needs to relocate for 18 months. The San Francisco Arts Commission is granting $140,000 of the total budget needed to cover relocation costs (packing, moving, storage, rent, deposits, utilities). We are seeking the balance $360,000 for unanticipated relocation expenses of the city owned building that we occupy.	$360,000	0	One-Time	Board of Supervisors	An expansion of an existing program or initiative	The Mission Cultural Center for Latino Arts (MCCLA) was established in 1977 by artists and community activists with a shared vision to promote, preserve and develop the cultural arts that reflect the living tradition and experiences of the Chicano, Afro-Latino, Central and South American, and Caribbean people, and to make arts accessible as an essential element to community development and well-being. MCCLA has been serving the Latino community for the past 45 years, providing access to bilingual arts education to underserved Latino population in the Bay Area. MCCLA is a multicultural, multidisciplinary arts organization committed to the collaborative artistic vision of the Latino art forms. MCCLA provides the community with an arena in which to develop new artistic skills, as well as support local and established artists that serve their community. MCCLA collaborates with other arts, social and humanitarian groups to provide the widest range of programming possible. MCCLA is a clear example of inequity in the distribution of city resources for institutions that provide services to the BIPOC community. MCCLA has needed structural improvements for the past 25 years. We are finally getting seismic retrofitting that will also include the HVAC system in March 2023. The structural improvements are welcome and overdue, however the unanticipated cost of relocating a facility of our size is high. We have a short timeline to raise the necessary funds to comply with the DPW requests to move by March 2023. It is our hope that equity will be reflected in the city funding we receive to come back stronger after years of neglect. Without additional funding and support to cover the expense of high rent and the relocation of our facility, MCCLA is left in a challenging position that could potentially expand the gap in resources available to continue to provide programming to the Latinx community during the 18 months we will be required to relocate.

The funding would also allow more providers to participate.	1350000	1800000	Ongoing - with the same funding amount each year	HSA	An expansion of an existing program or initiative	The Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP) is a federal nutrition program that partially reimburses ECE providers for healthy meals and snacks served to the children in their care. CACFP supports healthy growth and development in children and is recognized as a strategy for combating and preventing childhood obesity and food insecurity. Despite benefits, 75% of child care centers and only 44% of FCC providers in San Francisco participate in the CACFP. According to the 2019 report Exploring the Potential to Improve Food Security Among Low-Income Families in San Francisco through the CACFP, low participation is due, in part, to low meal reimbursement rates that do not cover the entire cost of the healthy meals provided. According to the same report, if there was a 25% increase in FCC CACFP participation due to increased reimbursement rates (i.e. covering the gap between Tier II and Tier I rates) 696 more low-income children would receive healthy meals and snacks every day. This proposal will allow for maximum reimbursement and also account for expansion in order to allow more participation in CACFP by providers. Estimated amount to bring Tier 2/Mixed providers to Tier 1 reimbursement: $210,000. Estimated amount for a supplement to reimburse meals close to the full amount: $835,548.48*

DEC funding could support the family and child with dedicated access funds to receive ECE services.	1000000	1000000	Ongoing - with the same funding amount each year	HSA	A new program or initiative (not previously funded by the City and County)	Black and Pacific Islander teen moms without child care often have to choose between school and work which sets the family up for poverty. The child also may suffer if the parent does not have access to quality child care. Teenagers with high adverse childhood experience scores are more likely to become teen moms. 48% of teen moms have an adverse childhood experience score between 8 and 10. Expanding on this topic, children of teen mothers disproportionately have higher adverse childhood experience scores due to a lack of economic support. Furthermore, teen moms are more likely to be single moms which limit their wage-earning potential. To break the cycle of teen motherhood and high adverse childhood experience scores, San Francisco can develop child care pre-natal plans for teen moms from underrepresented communities to ensure that the mom has child care and additional support to combat this cycle. DEC funding could support the family and child with dedicated access funds to receive ECE services. This is also a MegaBlack SF Education priority*

We are asking for new funding for FY 22-23 for the construction of our new space at 1863 Mission Street in the American Indian Cultural District in addition to AICC Cultural Programming, expanding our Indigenous Foods Program, and workforce development for AAN artists.  As you are aware of, the American Indian community has always had a strong presence in San Francisco. The Indian Center, which is now known as the American Indian Cultural Center, has been serving the AAN community for over 54 years. We have continued to survive in an ever changing environment making sure the AAN community is provided resources and visibility in San Francisco. AICC is the heart of the AAN community.  In the last 5 years, AICC has been proud of the growth of the organization. We started with $50k and have continued to grow the funding to where we can hire both part-time and full time staff and grow our programming. AICC's success is due to the support of our Board of Directors the AICC Advisory Committee, Executive Director and staff. AICC was able to be recognized as a virtual center providing in person and online programming elevating an Indigenous presence in San Francisco. To add to creating more visibility, AICC was able to lead and advocate for the first ever American Indian Cultural District (AICD). This could not have been possible without the support from various cultural groups like Calle 24, local supervisors, city and county departments and the Mayor's office.  Now AICC has an opportunity to take back space in the American Indian Cultural District with program and office space at 1863 Mission Street. In 2013, an 8th grader in Pin@y Educational Partnerships at James Denman Middle School, Brandon participated in Youth Participatory Action Research (YPAR) with his classmates on the topic of violence. Brandon, along with his classmates, made a call to action of creating a mural to help address the issue of violence in his community. He also gave the following call to action regarding violence at the Paula Freire Legacy Event that took place at the Institute for Sustainable Economic, Educational and Environmental Design (ISEEED) in Oakland back in 2013. "We need more community based internships and organizations for the youth to help keep kids off the streets so then they could also be more involved with the community. Personally, as a youth it's hard to get a job and if we have more internships we could show you that our youth aren't only about violence and that we all have our talents."  We are asking for funding to finally bring Brandon and his classmates' call to action from their YPAR project to fruition. Funding of these projects would: 1) Commemorate Brandon Cheese's life and message about anti-violence/violence prevention for youth of the Excelsior, youth of San Francisco 2) Give Brandon's family, friends, and loved ones the agency to achieve justice through making a difference in the community, in Brandon's honor 3) Ensure Brandon's story, message, and memory is acknowledged, memorialized, and honored, especially as a young black man, so his passing is not just "an isolated incident" or just another statistic. This is a very ethnically, socioeconomically and demographically diverse neighborhood. Our families and senior need safe and clean green parks spaces to be available and maintained for community use. The City's office needs to invest more into the D11 community. I have made this request several times to the D11 office and to the Mayor's Budget office. I was told that the Budget office was too busy to meet with my neighborhood group despite being invited by email to schedule time. This budget request process seems unworkable and lacks transparency. I have asked for clarity on the budget request office many times, the latest to THIS office, I eagerly await that information.	D11

There is a higher rate of children under 18 years old in the area than San Francisco's overall. Residents represent a variety of ages, cultural backgrounds. In the Portola, the majority is Asian (61%) and Latino residents (21%). At FCC's Portola center, our families are mainly immigrants and reflect the demographics of the district. Asian-Chinese: 60%; Asian-Vietnamese: 8% Asian-Other: 7%; Filipino: 3%; Latino/a: 16%. In addition, 79% have household incomes characterized by the Department of Housing & Urban Development Department as either low or very low. In addition to a lack of financial resources, this neighborhood also faces challenges in language and literacy. 50% of the district's residents are foreign-born and 65.4% of students at the neighborhood public schools are English language learners. Of FCC's participants, over 62% are foreign-born and 70% are English language learners. Family Connections exists to provide fundamental and comprehensive programs to support children, parents, and caregivers, as well as to serve the specific needs of the families in our neighborhoods. We work with residents, community partners and parent leaders to facilitate community building, address neighborhood concerns, and develop concrete solutions. Our continuum of services includes case management, support groups, ESL classes, family financial education workshops, a licensed preschool, afterschool programs, parent-child groups, exercise classes, and educational workshops that inform families about topics ranging from nutrition to how to navigate the public school enrollment process and distance learning. We serve approximately 1,500 low-income, immigrant children and their parents/caregivers at our Portola Center.	D9

Committed to equity and justice, this arts fellowship program is creating a pathway to economic security for artists in communities typically overlooked and underserved by traditional funding sources—namely, artists of color; immigrant, refugee, non-english speaking, and undocumented artists; queer and trans artists; sex working artists; artists in communities grappling with over-policing and the carceral system; housing insecure and unhoused artists; and senior and youth artists. Families with working parents potentially will need to enroll their children in Before Care which costs between $1,800-$2,250 per child per year in addition to After School Care which costs $5,000 per child per year. Principals are anticipating 150 to 200 youth needing Before School Care at each campus. As the Commission on the Environment has written, "the Department (of the Environment), and by extension the City, is still not financially equipped to tackle the enormity of climate change." The City must be willing to commit General Fund revenue to programs in equitable climate-change mitigation; unless it does so, we cannot even begin to take the critical actions required by the Climate Action Plan the City so hopefully introduced in December. Hiring new staff for SFE is a necessary first step. The breakdown of the request is specifically to fund staffing to manage programs in: -Building sector decarbonization - $2.4 million -Transportation sector electric mobility - $488 thousand -Biodiversity & healthy ecosystems - $316 thousand It's important to note that having dedicated staff for the above sectors will finally enable SFE to identify and access additional funding from state and federal grants - money that they've been unable to pursue effectively precisely because of understaffing! Since SFE is charged with coordinating the Climate Action Plan, sufficient funding for that role is essential for achieving the 2021 Climate Action Plan's enhancement of racial and social equity and a Just Transition (see pages 45-47 for a summary). Specifically, -The Building Operations strategies which center on building efficiency and decarbonization would specifically support access to electrification by BIPOC and low income communities, which would improve equity in terms of health outcomes- replacement of gas appliances with electric significantly reduces indoor air pollution and its lung, heart, and mental health harms. The efficiency gains would also reduce the utility and stranded-asset cost burden on low income families, especially in the decarbonization of existing buildings and will be expensive. The city's electrification efforts should begin with pilot programs to electrify a small number of affordable housing units. Qualified, local San Francisco contractors and apprentices should be the first hired, and the workers' wages and benefits must meet or exceed minimum labor standards. Such pilots would benefit low income renters who do not have the ability to retrofit their units. We know that the indoor air pollution from gas appliances is particularly harmful, and affects those in smaller, less well ventilated buildings more severely. Changing out stoves and all gas appliances will help deliver better air quality and help avoid cases of asthma which are correlated with gas cooking. The renovation work will bring good paying construction jobs.	D1, D2, D3, D4, D5, D6, D7, D8, D9, D10, D11

Community outreach is not a box to be checked off; it is key to the dignity and well-being of communities where solutions are being implemented. Real community outreach allows for the people and organizations affected to tell the City what obstacles need to be surmounted and work with the City on shaping their future. Also, the public is largely unaware of what building electrification and other climate action solutions entail. Education is necessary around how shifting to clean electric and more efficient systems instead of fossil fuels enhances health and reduces climate change. In particular, we need to recruit and educate those in low-income housing who may be able to participate in the pilot electrification, and make them partners in the work to be done on their homes. Qualified San Francisco contractors and apprentices should be the first hired, and the workers' wages and benefits must meet or exceed minimum labor standards.  Some mom-and-pop restaurants and others are wary of changing their stoves from gas to electric. Providing modern, non-polluting electric induction stoves will vastly improve the air quality for kitchen workers, many of whom are low income wage earners and people of color. Kitchen temperatures will be cooler and more comfortable without the burning of natural gas. The pilot project can help restaurants to experiment and to understand that the food they serve can be made on electric stoves. This will help the more widespread adoption of induction stoves by commercial kitchens.  The commercial kitchen pilot will help create good paying jobs for construction industry workers. Expanding District Energy systems in the city could provide energy resilience, facilitate load shifting, and reduce emissions. District energy - both electrical and thermal - may offer significant benefits. In high-density areas, use of 5th generation district heat (see https://sfghc.eu5ghc-in-short/ ) may make it easier and more cost-effective to provide heating and cooling where property-line construction and small living spaces make heat pumps difficult to implement.  5th generation district energy may enable load shifting via thermal storage strategies - especially important when heating demand is high. District ground loop strategies for heat pumps can offer significant improvements in Coefficient of Performance, reducing both peak and average electrical demand compared to air-source heat pumps - and reducing operating costs. Electric microgrids offer options for increased resilience and load shifting. To begin, we need a study on potential costs and benefits.	D1, D2, D3, D4, D5, D6, D7, D8, D9, D10, D11

Such programs need to be greatly expanded, starting now, to reach disadvantaged residents - including renters and their landlords - with sufficiently-expanded rebates & incentives along with the outreach necessary for them to take advantage of these opportunities.  Such rebates help to create more jobs in the trades when gas appliances are switched out for electric heat pumps and induction stoves. We will certainly need more skilled tradespeople - plumbers, HVAC workers and electricians - to do the retrofit work. Lack of social connection and food insecurity are destabilizing barriers for veterans in our community, particularly as they age. The average age of Vietnam veterans is now over 70 years old. To meet these needs, the Veterans Community Center will offer daytime programming that encompasses the existing programs offered at Swords to Plowshares Drop-in Center at 1080 Howard Street, including: mental health services, clinical case management, financial empowerment services, legal services, employment and job training, homelessness prevention and housing placement, and community referrals for substance use treatment and healthcare. New enhancements will include an emphasis on community-building and non-traditional care: veterans will be able to use the Center to rest, address hygiene, eat a warm meal, play games, do yoga or meditation, participate in group therapy, join a digital literacy class, and meet with a Geriatric Social Worker. We will also offer transportation for veterans to healthcare appointments. In the evenings and on weekends, the Center will address a gap in available services for unhoused veterans and senior and highly acute veterans who live in permanent housing but have limited connection to community. Many formerly homeless veterans reside in SRO units and benefit from accessing spaces where they can socialize and connect. We will provide evening communal meals—an important aspect of addressing mental health and food security—as well as transportation, movie and game nights, quiet spaces, group therapy, case management, and other traditional interventions. 5/12/2022 11:42:25	sachumang@lowerpolkcbd.org	Lower Polk Community Benefit District	Chris Schulman	sachumang@lowerpolkcbd.org	[REDACTED]	No	Not applicable	Lower Polk Tenant Landlord Clinic: Lower Polk TLC's mission is to prevent homelessness by keeping folks housed in their current situation.	100,000	100,000	Ongoing- with the same funding amount each year	MOHCD	Continuing support for a program that has expiring funding	Founded and designed in 2017 by Kevin Thomason, who is formerly homeless, the Tenant Landlord Clinic (TLC) works to keep people staid in their current place of abode. The TLC works via a unique partnership model that includes the Bar Association of San Francisco's Conflict Intervention Service (BASFCIS) and UC Hastings College of the Law.  The TLC does three main things: (1) outreach, (2) education, and (3) service delivery. As stated above, our main goal is to prevent eviction before it starts.  With respect to service delivery, and in conjunction with our partner BASFCIS, we have helped liberally thousands of families in the Lower Polk, Tenderloin and Citywide remain staid, and/or gain information that will help them remain staid.  The service delivery model we use is mediation/ADR and we can often stop small problems from turning into big problems. We have found that because we work in a non-adversarial fashion, clients who suffer from trauma are subject to less stress than if we were working adversarially.  TLC is extremely proactive with respect to bringing in wrap-around services as needed. Often, people who are unstably housed are also confronted by multiple challenges, and we collectively work to provide people the resources they need in order to maintain stable housing.  The vast majority of our clients earn under $18,000 per year, and people who identify as white make up less than 10 percent of our clients. Only about 48 percent of our clients identify as straight, with the remainder either choosing not to identify, or identifying as gay or bisexual or "not listed." With respect to age, they range from the late teens to people who are over 80 years old. However, the vast majority of our clients are people who are over 40 years old.  GENDER-BASED VIOLENCE PREVENTION AND INTERVENTION GRANTS PROGRAM  The Gender-Based Violence (GBV) Prevention and Intervention Grants Program, formerly the Violence Against Women (VAW) Prevention and Intervention Grants Program, is a significant programmatic area of the Department on the Status of Women. These grants support community-based programs in San Francisco that provide essential violence prevention and intervention services to the community. Partner Agencies provide services to adults and youth who are survivors of domestic violence, human trafficking, and sexual assault in the following six priority service areas:  Emergency Shelter Transitional Housing Crisis Lines Intervention & Advocacy Legal Services Prevention & Education  Data shows that 79% of those served by the GBV Community are people of color. 4% of those served are from the LGBT+ communities.  https://sf.gov.org/downloads/default.aspx?%2019-20%20GBV%20Report%20-%202020%20update%20-%2012%202020%201%20.pdf  From Housing Stability Fund Oversight Board FY22-23 Budget Recommendations	D1, D2, D3, D4, D5, D6, D7, D8, D9, D10, D11

Staff will attend The College Board's 2023 and 2024 A Dream Deferred Conferences.	$52,000	$52,000	Ongoing - with the same funding amount each year	Departments appropriate for this request include DCYF, MOHCD, OEW and HSA.	Continuing support for a program that has expiring funding	We serve Black and Brown SFUSD students striving to access a college education but who need academic and other supports to achieve that goal. These students range in age from 14 to 19 and each year ~300 of them use our academic success and college access programs. While they work hard to realize academic goals they attend some of the city's most challenged schools and are unsure if the dream of a college education is one to which they can aspire. Some of their families (48%) use public benefits to stabilize, at least 25% live in subsidized housing, and 73% are first generation college bound students. The neighborhoods they live in fall below national standards of economic security.  This request advances racial equity in that it allows Black students who, due to inequitable systems and policies, receive sub par academic training and college access support in SFUSD schools to get on track for and access a college education that positions them for life success. It also unapologetically acknowledges the impacts of systemic racism in the education system and how that conspires to derail the success of Black students. Eighty-five percent of 100% College Prep students go on to attend and complete college degrees.  HBCU College Tour 2020 would have marked our 15th HBCU college tour but due to the pandemic we had to put this centerpiece event on hold for two years. This meant that 60 students could not benefit from campus visits as they made one of the biggest decisions of their lives. Not conducting the tour also means that we are seeing a huge demand for a 2023 tour.  Capacity Building Too many Black SFUSD students receive inadequate college advising and counseling as they begin to make transitions from high school to college. Our college	D10

Due to increased and hostile anti-reproductive health care protests, the security of our patients and staff has become a daily concern for our organization.	$500,000	0	One-Time	NA	An expansion of an existing program or initiative	The Planned Parenthood Northern California (PPNocal) San Francisco Health Center is one of our highest visibility locations due to the large numbers of patients we see and is the site of near daily protests. These protesters make it difficult for patients to enter and exit the building and create a hostile climate that is a barrier to patients' privacy, safety, and health equity. This funding will provide the health center patients and staff with adequate security personnel during heightened times of protesting and throughout the year. Security averages $90/hr. The San Francisco Planned Parenthood Health Center is open 6 days a week, 8 hours a day, and requires two full-time security people.  Nationally, we have seen an increase in violent activity against organizations providing abortion, which is expected to increase due to legislative actions restricting abortion access across the country. According to unclassified FBI reports, there is an increase in violent threats and criminal activity against health centers that provide abortion and their patients and staff. These threats impact the patients' access to quality reproductive health care. If staff feel threatened by their workplace, PPNocal will have trouble retaining qualified health care providers, especially given the national shortage of health care providers. If patients feel threatened, they will not show up, leaving the most vulnerable populations in San Francisco without any other reproductive health care options. This leads to increased poverty and a reduction in health and racial equity.	D2

Request submitted on behalf of a single agency	In FY21-22, our agency was awarded a $100,000 contract that ran for 10 months and supports our Family Law Project; this contract is slated to be renewed in FY22-23 at $100,000 for 12 months, effectively representing a cut in funding. We respectfully request $20,000 in funding for FY22-23 to right-size this contract and avoid a reduction in staffing and service deliverables.	20000	120000	Ongoing- with the same funding amount each year	Mayor's Office of Housing and Community Development	Funding that is slated to be cut in the departmental or Mayor budget proposals	This Family Law Project is one of the only legal services projects in San Francisco that offers free civil legal services to low-income residents for general family law issues. While many legal services projects exist that focus on domestic violence, restraining orders, and child custody, ours is unique in that it accepts a broad diversity of family law cases – low-income San Franciscans can receive holistic legal assistance in family law matters from us without having to be referred to specialized providers for each legal issue. As such, our project fills a gap in legal services for low-income San Franciscans.  In 2021, this project was funded with a 2-year Add-Back allocation of $100,000/year in FY21-22 and FY22-23. However, the FY21-22 contract started on 09/01/2021, running 10 months to 06/30/2022. Now we are faced with the prospect of receiving the same funding amount for two additional months of service provision – an approximately 17% cut in funding. If our FY22-23 award amount is not adjusted to be at least equal on a prorated basis to our FY21-22 contract, our agency will be forced to reduce staffing and deliverables by 17%, leaving us without the resources to take about 10 cases that we would otherwise accept for legal advocacy. We respectfully request that our contract's allocation be increased to $120,000/year to support the full breadth and scope of our services.  In an era of extreme inflation and skyrocketing costs of doing business in San Francisco, we are asking only that our FY22-23 contract be kept at level funding to avoid reducing the services that are available to vulnerable low-income San Franciscans. Thank you for your consideration of this request.	D6

The city currently entrusts its billions of taxpayer dollars to Wall Street banks who have and continue to practice predatory lending, redlining, foreclosures, and financing of harmful industries such as fossil fuels, weapons, and private prisons. Undoing the harm of these practices remain key motivators for the Reinvestment Working Group. The Policy Analyst for the Reinvestment Working Group staffs the working group under the guidance of the Clerk's office and coordinates with community members, the working group chair, LAFCo, LAFCo commissioners, and other stakeholders to advance the vision of a public bank for San Francisco. A public bank and its predecessor entity, a non-depository municipal financial corporation (MFC), will be able to partner with local credit unions, CDFIs, and public agencies to reinvest the City's funds to catalyze the production and preservation of deeply affordable housing, accelerate the city's decarbonization plans, provide cheaper costs of funds to public entities that need infrastructure upgrades such as SFUSD, and extend patient capital to help BIPOC, LGBTQ, immigrant, and other minority-owned small businesses in San Francisco stay afloat in times of financial instability. The working group began meeting in April 2022 and by ordinance, will have until April 2023 to finish a business plan for both a public bank and a non-depository MFC. Current funding for the policy analyst to staff the working group would only last until mid-January 2023, a full 3 months short of the Working Group's deadline. The contracted consultants who are facilitating the working group's business plans have had a hard time establishing at least one other public bank as well as more than a hundred other private banks in the U.S. Consultants have advised that deliberation within the California's Department of Financial Protection and Innovation (DFPI) for a San Francisco public bank charter could take up to an additional year or more. Specifically, it is hiring two new staff members critically needed in our organization: A Finance Director & A Director of Project Management. A Finance Director has been required by the Mayor's Office of Housing in order to continue to develop the small sales program projects but funding has not been offered from MCHC for this position. If SFCLT is to continue to develop affordable housing in SF, in a time when it is needed more than ever, it must retain a Finance Director as soon as possible. Secondly, SFCLT must hire a Director of Project Management. With two new projects in our portfolio (totaling to 44 units of housing) and four active properly rehabilitation projects planned for this year alone, it has become necessary to take project management of these projects in-house.  The experience of SFCLT board and staff in recent years established that racial equity, diversity, equity and inclusion, needed to become front and center of our organizational priorities and embedded into every level of our policies and practices, not only in the composition of our board, and in our hiring practices, but also in placing racial equity at the heart of our acquisition and homeownership strategy by specifically seeking out projects with majority BIPOC residents and focusing on creating access to homeownership for this community. As a result, we incorporated racial equity planning into our strategic and business planning process, and have become a majority women and BIPOC led organization both in our staff and our board.  This was accomplished by: 1) making racial equity #1 in our organizational strategic priorities; 2) deepening our understanding of racial equity for our organization by engaging in three DEI workshops with outside consultants, which explored what specifically DEI means for us in the affordable housing preservation and land trust context, as well as, resulted in an SFCLT DEI statement; 4) the identification of	D1, D2, D3, D4, D5, D6, D7, D8, D9, D10, D11

5/24/2022 18:31:56		San Francisco Community Land Trust	Hope Williams			No	I, Hope Williams, Board President of the San Francisco Community Land Trusts as a pilot program, the San Francisco Permanent Real Estate Cooperative (SFPREC) model is an innovative structure led by and for Black, Indigenous, and people of color in San Francisco that responds to the challenges within the CLT model by using equity from community members to buy and develop properties (residential and commercial) that the cooperative members will collectively own and keep affordable in perpetuity.	75,000	200,000	Ongoing- with the same funding amount each year	Mayor's Office of Housing and Community Development	A new program or initiative (not previously funded by the City and County)	The San Francisco Permanent Real Estate Cooperative simultaneously de-commodifies land, enables community control for structurally excluded communities, and disrupts root causes of racialized inequality. Unlike a conventional housing cooperative, which is formed to provide housing to a defined group of residents, a PREC could be described as a "movement cooperative" because it is designed to provide housing, build a large membership base, and serve members' collective goal to transform our neighborhoods and our systems of finance and land ownership. SFPREC's continued growth models scalable solutions for low-income people to access stable homes that are affordable in the long term. Also, the funding sources for the establishment of communities are also relatively stable and secure, which ensures the sustainable development and protection of communities. At the same time, the upgrading, redevelopment, and renewal of such residential areas can develop a community with dilapidated housing, poverty, and lack of living infrastructure into a comfortable, convenient residential area. This gives every resident a chance to get better opportunities, such as education and work. SFPREC would buy the land and lease houses and units to residents for affordable prices, the cooperative gives control to residents and uses long-term leases to simulate real homeownership. When it comes to buying buildings with multiple units, SFPREC would seek out buildings with majority BIPOC residents that are on the verge of displacement. From here, we'd recruit residents to invest $1,000 each to the coop can purchase the entire property, which then guarantees no tenants will lose their homes. By investing in their own community, SFPREC would give guidance to tenants on how to steward their own land. Our goal for the future is to see diverse communities living on land without landlords. By equitable we imply that the benefits of this development should be spread as widely as possible, and should be certain to include current residents as well as those seeking opportunities in District 11. The current crisis has highlighted the systemic injustices built within our economic structures as these investments will help build our capacity to fight gentrifying effects that will ensure the cultural and economic diversity of our small businesses. These investments will provide the support where entrepreneurs from marginalized communities can access and find the resources they need to survive and, hopefully, thrive. A strong, diverse small business eco-system also increases the resiliency of our City - small business provide the framework and identity of our neighborhoods; they are the economy who stays and invest, and they represent the needs and wellbeing for the diversity that is San Francisco. Many of our Chinese monolingual-speaking entrepreneurs operating along our corridor can be a very insular community often distrustful of institutional seeming organizations. What has bridged this gap is our one on one interactions. Our current contractor visits these small businesses taking the time to get to know them, build trust, and provide support when asked for. We want to build on this window of opportunity to provide services to these hard to reach business owners. In addition, part of what we are hearing from our small businesses and residents is the need to create community events that celebrate our small businesses and build community resiliency through activations. Last year we had approximately 4 events and this year we have over 12 events for the year. As a small organization this has been hard to manage since we also produce them in order to save money but now Crocker Amazon park is utilized by hundreds of people on a daily basis and serves a community that is mostly BIPOC. The technology is safe, non-invasive, and not collecting any personally identifiable information.	$100,000	0	One-Time	No	A new program or initiative (not previously funded by the City and County)	District 10 and District 11 neighborhoods in San Francisco, have a significant illegal dumping problem that deteriorates the quality of life and compromises health and safety of all residents. As stated by D10 Supervisor Shamann Walton, "Illegal dumping is a huge problem and really hurts the community." "It's not fair for our families to walk or drive past trash every day. It's not fair for our community to be dumped on. Currently, there are a number of city cleaning programs that clean main street corridors (3rd Street corridor street cleaning), and various volunteer organizations (RelaxBeFreeSF.org) that organize volunteer cleanups, along with fines. It is still not enough, however, to keep the streets clean and free of illegal dumping. Garbage is dumped daily at many locations, ranging from industrial, construction materials, toxic items, and large and small household items. The Department of Public Works and Recycling are not equipped or staffed to find and remove all illegally dumped garbage. Currently it is up to residents to either file 311 reports directly or hope that a nearby neighbor cleans it up.  As residents of D10 and D11 we believe there is a better way to identify garbage and partner with existing cleaning departments to remove it quickly. From April through May 2022, we have run a small test in the Bayview and Excelsior to detect and report garbage to SF311. Started as a passion project to make positive change, Brian Johnson, Bayview resident and creator of this initiative, started small and shared his findings with area residents on Nextdoor and in community meetings. In 2 months, Brian has covered 22 miles of streets daily, capturing and reporting 648 pieces of garbage, to 311 for cleanup. It has been a resounding success, as measured by cleaner streets, and support from local residents and the 311 team. Neighbors engaged the program, many reaching out to support, ask for their areas to be covered in the garbage detection program, or form partnerships to come up with ways to keep streets clean. In areas like the Haight, there are no free showers available and in others like the Mission, there is a high demand but very limited hours when showers are available. Homelessness is an issue that continues to be highly stigmatized—resulting in many misconceptions about the people we serve. The lack of an access to a shower amplifies that stigma, feelings of rejection growing out of a lack of hygiene isolate unhoused people from society, impair their ability to find and keep work and can impact relationships with family, community and friends. This total is approximately $13M, though the current funding from CCSF is less than half.  In 2020, the Academy proactively reduced 27% of its total budget and 43% of staff in the same year, as the City mandated 15% reductions on top of these cuts. This led us to cut 2 engineers and reduced our funding to $8.6M. The Academy is asking the City to help recoup these costs for FY23-24 and strongly consider fully funding the Steinhart Aquarium in future funding cycles.  Funding will support:  Stationary Engineers Engineers are tasked with monitoring, operating, repairing, and maintaining the aquarium life support systems and building mechanical systems 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year. Each workday consists of three working shifts (day, swing, and grave) staffed with at least one Engineer on watch duty who is continuously on-site. A Watch Engineer will not leave their post until relieved by another trained Engineer. Two positions were eliminated in 2020 to meet cost savings as required by the City for COVID-19 budget reductions. Impacts of the 7334 Stationary Engineer position not being filled: 1. Increased spending on overtime and premium pay to cover the vacancy in shift coverage. 2. Increased PTO (80 hours of additional floating holidays) during pandemic has greatly strained shift coverage. 3. Increased burnout of staff who are asked to work outside of their normal schedule. 4. This work is critical for ensuring that immigration status does not impede a prosecution and deny justice and appropriate protection for victims. The District Attorney's Office must determine whether the visa applicant was the victim of any eligible offense charged or not, whether the victim was helpful in the investigation and prosecution of the crime, and whether the victim ever refused or failed to provide reasonably requested assistance in the investigation or prosecution of the crime, or whether the applicant meets the familial relationship requirements to an eligible victim. To accurately attest to these required elements and provide certification, the District Attorney's Office must conduct extensive reviews of casefiles, reports, court histories, and communication records on each application. SFDA seeks to establish an Immigration Unit aimed at strengthening the implementation of both federal and state law that requires prosecutors to consider adverse consequences for non-citizen defendants in the charging and plea-bargaining process (CA Penal Code §1016.3(b)). The Immigration Attorney will advise prosecutors on minimizing the collateral impact of criminal convictions that could result in dire consequences such as deportation. Additionally, the Immigration Unit will strengthen relationships with the city's immigrant communities and develop policies and protocols to ensure that immigrant crime victims and witnesses understand their rights, have all the necessary support to feel safe and trust the system. 6/7/2022 8:18:13	chair@portolaof.org	Portola Neighborhood Association	Maggie Weis	chair@portolaof.org	[REDACTED]	No	Portola Neighborhood Association	In 2017, facade improvements to the Portola's Avenue Theatre were completed and the neon has been lit nightly since. We are requesting $140,000, and have a $70,000 match, to make minor upgrades and to host several galas to inspire purchase and activation of the theatre as an anchor business in the Portola that will help fill vacancies and rejuvenate the San Bruno Avenue nighttime commercial corridor.	140,000.00	140,000.00	Ongoing- with the same funding amount each year	Not certain	Continuing support for a program that has expiring funding	From 2015 to 2017, the PNA coordinated a collaborative effort between the City and the owner of the Avenue Theatre that resulted in a facade improvement of the theatre. The neon has glowed each night since 2017 and the marquee has had updated messages each season thanks to an ongoing collaboration between the property owner, Phil Maslov, and the PNA. As part of the facade improvement, the owner offered a reduced lease storefront to Churn Urban Creamery which Churn operated in the space for two years and moved out during covid, simultaneous to the rent reworking to market rate. The contract between the City and the owner expires June 30, 2022 and he would no longer be required to light the neon, and terms for reduced rent have expired for the theatre and the two adjacent retail spaces.  The Avenue Theatre has sat mostly idle for 40 years except for church rentals for a small portion of time. There has been no effort to activate the space and adjacent storefronts sit empty. The PNA has advised the owner that we believe we can find a party to purchase the theatre and he has indicated he is willing to sell. The PNA has also convened an advisory group called Renew the Avenue Theatre to structure a process for promoting the theatre and engaging community members in activating the space.  Our goal is to apply this funding toward hosting a series of gala events to draw purchasers, funders and programmers together to realize the potential of the theatre. A bathroom needs to be upgraded, some fire measures need to be addressed and a project manager hired to coordinate the work. Up to 99 people could congregate currently and there is the possibility of applying for a temporary place of assembly and hiring a "Fire Watch" for the gala events we aim to conduct. Thankfully, we have a solution: we propose moving the Drop-in service to our current A Woman's Place shelter location. In doing so, we could dignify the unhoused women of San Francisco who utilize our program by offering them a bed instead of a plastic chair.  In order to make this move possible, we are asking that the Department of Public Health expand our existing contract to accommodate the increase in services we seek to offer out of the larger building.  Background: While there are more than 2700 unhoused women in SF on any given night, there are only 99 shelter beds and 157 units of permanent housing available in women-only spaces. More than 50 percent of cis and trans homeless women experiences severe physical or sexual abuse at some point in their lives (National Network to End Domestic Violence). The average mortality age for chronically homeless women is 48 versus 83 years of age for housed women (LA Times). 58% of the women we serve are over the age of 50.  If we do not find a solution, and these women are forced to the streets, they will die.  A Woman's Place Drop-in is the only 24/7 program available to any woman at any time of day. We are offering a uniquely safe space for women of all identities and experiences to enter our facility, engage in meaningful programming, participate in a TAY & FAMILY WELLNESS SUPPORT: Seeking a restoration of $75,000 add back from last year through MOHCD to support Transitional Aged Youth and adults, ages 18-24 years old, in need of assistance with health and wellness services including COVID-19 tests, Narcan distribution and outreach, AIDS testing, and other health and wellness workshops and support and well as other educational training opportunities for community members. If we do not receive a funding expansion to move to a new space, the only women-only shelter currently funded by HSH will be forced to close.	$3,294,964	$3,558,582	Ongoing- with the same funding amount each year	HSH & DPH	An expansion of an existing program or initiative	For decades, unhoused women of San Francisco have been forced to suffer inhumane conditions as a trade off for safety. Elderly, medically fragile, women of color, and/or LGBTQ+ identifying women have opted to sleep in plastic chairs at Community Forward's A Woman's Place drop-in center for lack of viable options.  The building that housed our drop-in program is now being sold and our lease ends on June 30th. We have a two-prong solution to save this program, along with the lives of countless women:  We propose moving the Drop-in service to our current A Woman's Place shelter location. In doing so, we could dignify the unhoused women of San Francisco who utilize our program by offering them a bed instead of a plastic chair. (see separate budget proposal for expansion of our drop-in service)  This move will displace our current shelter programs operating out of that building, leaving our women's shelter homeless. Thankfully, the owners of the Nob Hill Hotel, a former SJP Hotel location, have extended a 20 year lease offer to move our women's shelter to their building. Therefore, we propose moving A Woman's Place shelter to the Nob Hill Hotel.  In order to move the shelter program, we will need to expand our HSH and DPH contracts to meet the higher rent costs and double the capacity of the program to 100 women. For decades, we have had a waiting list for our shelter beds and a line of women seeking one of the chairs at our drop-in center. We know there is a need for this increased capacity. We must invest in women's services now before these women return to the street. 6/10/2022 13:57:15	AWong@caast.org	Chinese for Affirmative Action fiscal lead of the Immigrant Parent Voting Collaborative	Annette Wong	Awong@caast.org	[REDACTED]	Yes	API Council	We are currently funded to conduct outreach and education on non-citizen voting, work with City departments on implementation, and promote immigrant civic engagement and leadership development opportunities. We are requesting an increase in funding to expand our work to include technical assistance on non-citizen voting for immigrant serving CBOs and citywide institutions, warm referrals to immigration legal services and clinics, and additional civic engagement opportunities.	$250,000	$250,000	Ongoing - with the same funding amount each year	Office of Civic Engagement and Immigrant Affairs (OCEA)	An expansion of an existing program or initiative	Non-citizen voting in school board elections became a reality after the passage of Proposition 13 in November 2016. As a cross-racial group of organizations that serve immigrant families at the intersection of education equity, immigrant rights, and civic engagement, the Immigrant Parent Voting Collaborative was formed in 2016 with CA as the lead and fiscal agent. Joined by African Advocacy Network, the Arab Resource and Organizing Center, the Central American Resource Center, Coleman Advocates for Children and Youth, La Raza Community Resource Center, Mason Economic Development Agency, and Mason Grubbs. Each year the collaborative receives $250,000 that comes through OCEA. Over the last few years, the IPVC has been conducting education and outreach on non-citizen voting closely with the Department of Elections, SFUSD, and OCEA to ensure that implementation is equitable and accessible to all immigrant families; and training immigrant parents to become civically engaged and active in conducting outreach for education issues. During the special election the Board of Supervisors supported a supplemental increase of an additional $200,000 (bringing the collaborative to $500,000 for FY 21-22) for IPVC to conduct our work leading up to the recall election, which due to legislation passed in December 2021, non-citizens were newly eligible to vote in. With the increase in funds, IPVC was able to expand our capacity and identify new strategies for upcoming elections. We saw a 8 fold increase in non-citizen voter registration for the special election. As we move forward, IPVC would like to continue building on our current work to include new areas of work such as: technical assistance, including the development of a toolkit, for immigrant serving CBOs and citywide institutions to inform them of non-citizen voting; increasing opportunities for immigrant parents to engage in education issues by encouraging participation in SFUSD events and communications and education focused civic engagement events; and access to immigrant legal services through referrals and joint clinics hosted with other immigration legal service providers and collaborators. San Francisco is one of the larger major cities to pass and implement non-citizen voting, which means that other cities and municipalities are looking to San Francisco on how to do this well. With the additional funds, the IPVC can put forth a more robust effort to engage immigrant parents on education, that will hopefully lead to a life of civic engagement and voting later on in life. LGBTIQ BIPOC elders self-reported rate of depression rose from 16% to 33% during the pandemic and transgender elders saw a doubling of depressive symptoms. Our proposal is to provide free in-person mental health services with an evidence-based program to the LGBTIQ seniors, particularly transgender, BIPOC and long-term survivors of HIV/AIDS. We are proven successful with twenty-five years of experience working with LGBTIQ elders in San Francisco and the community has identified this a great as of yet unmet need. To be effective, we will do outreach to districts across the city and meet with those who we have yet to serve and importantly, link them to our program and services that are proven to significantly reduce isolation and support positive mental health outcomes with a particular emphasis on connecting those with housing need to our new affordable housing project on Market Street. This program has previously been funded by various sources including city departments, partnering nonprofits, Community Benefit Districts, District 3 City add backs, corporations, grants, and donations. To continue providing our services without drastically reducing the number of individuals we can support, these are the amounts we would need from each district to supplement our other funding. This program primarily serves the homeless community and those suffering from incarceration, neglect, and poverty. It also serves the entire City by removing debris from our streets, parks, and creeks. Finally, it serves our local businesses and economy through our street-cleaning workforce development model. This request advances racial equity by serving the unhoused and incarcerated communities which include disproportionate amounts of people of color. These funds will reactivate this much-needed programming. The Alernary Apartments, a low-income public housing community, is nearly 100% people of color. The proposed programming will reach these low-income residents exclusively, both directly through wages via the jobs program, and indirectly through community services. A large portion of the job program will include working at the 4.5-acre Alernary Farm and undertaken in collaboration with the Friends of Alernary Farm.  Notes on other answers in this proposal form: - We selected "update to a previous request" as part of the work proposed is a collaboration between ARMC and FOAF. But the funding for each org's budget would go to each respective organization separately. So this purpose should be considered a "new request." - There's not an answer that exactly fits for the question "What type of funding is this request?" We selected "A new program or initiative," even though ARMC has received city funding in the past, it hasn't, though, received city funding for a number of years.	D9
