Thor Kaslofsky, Director, Office of Community Investment and Infrastructure

Dear Colleagues,

I am writing to inquire about how the failure of Silicon Valley Bank ("SVB") and the challenges facing other regional banks could impact the City and County of San Francisco.

While immediate attention is focused on our economy as well as small businesses and workers in our community, the Board of Supervisors must ensure we protect the financial interests of San Francisco's taxpayers.

Through my experience as President of the Retirement Board, I am aware that the City may have direct investments handled through SVB and that the Retirement Board may have similar investments. I am asking Treasurer José Cisneros and CEO/CIO of the Retirement Board Alison Romano for a thorough accounting related to these investments.

It has been widely reported that SVB is also a funder of affordable housing developments. I am asking Director of the Mayor's Office of Housing and Community Development Eric Shaw and Office of Community Investment and Infrastructure Director Thor Kaslofsky about how the failure of SVB impacts the housing pipeline.

Of course, the broader impacts of SVB's failure and the risk posed to regional banks goes beyond the City's direct financial interest. If not properly addressed, the economic impacts of SVB's failure could lead to failure in other regional banks and/or local businesses.

I am asking Controller Ben Rosenfield and his Office of Economic Analysis along with Kate Sofis of the Office of Economic and Workforce Development to report on any broader economic issues that may impact the City and County of San Francisco's business community.

Once we have heard from City departments, I am asking the City Attorney to consider whether any legislation is needed to reduce risk or protect San Francisco.

While the situation with SVB is currently isolated and the actions of the Biden-Harris Administration are helping to secure investor confidence, we must be prepared for future volatility in the banking industry, especially as it relates to our regional banks.

As a member of the Budget and Finance Committee, I look forward to hearing from City departments and facilitating a conversation to understand the City's exposure during this crisis.

If you have any questions about this request, please contact me directly or contact my Chief of Staff Bill Barnes at bill.barnes@sfgov.org or 415.554.6975.

Sincerely,

AHSHA SAFAÍ
Supervisor for District 11
