11 crisis; and

13 production of over 82,000 homes, including over 46,000 affordable housing units, over the 14 next eight years; and

15 WHEREAS, All new housing must connect to the electrical grid, a process known as 16 interconnection, before it can be occupied; and

17 WHEREAS, San Francisco's affordable housing projects rely on Pacific Gas and 18 Electric Company's (PG&E) electrical distribution grid and infrastructure for interconnection, 19 before these units can be occupied by San Francisco's low-income residents; and

20 WHEREAS, San Francisco has historically experienced significant delays to the 21 energization of essential projects such as affordable housing units attempting to interconnect 22 to PG&E's electrical distribution grid; and

23 WHEREAS, PG&E has delayed City projects by imposing unnecessary requirements
24 and costs, as well as lacking set timelines for key portions of the interconnection process 25 which have contributed to significant delays and costs; and

1           WHEREAS, Since 2018, the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission (SFPUC) has 2 reported 136 projects delayed by PG&E; and

3           WHEREAS, The Mayor's Office of Housing and Community Development (MOHCD)

6 Francisco and San Francisco tax payers; and

7           WHEREAS, San Francisco is facing a projected $780 million budget deficit over the 8 next two years; and

9           WHEREAS, Senate Bill 83 will help mitigate harmful and unnecessary interconnection 10 delays by investor-owned utility corporations, including PG&E, by imposing strict timelines to 11 complete interconnection work after receiving the necessary permits, and requiring that they 12 pay financial compensation to the project applicant if they fail to meet that timeline; and

13           WHEREAS, Senate Bill 83 will provide a much-needed enforcement mechanism by the 14 State to hold investor-owned utilities accountable for delaying interconnection to affordable 15 housing projects in San Francisco; and

16           WHEREAS, The State Legislation Committee of San Francisco voted to support
17 Senate Bill 83 during its meeting on April 12, 2023; now, therefore, be it
