| 10 | American students and their White and Asian counterparts; and                                   |  |  |

| 15 | WHEREAS, The Euro-centric focus of the American education system and other                      |  |  |
| 16 | American institutions has perpetually framed the history of Black people in America as either   |  |  |

| 18 | over-incarceration; and   |  |  |
| 19 | WHEREAS, The broader impact of African innovations such as math, science,                       |  |  |
| 20 | engineering, sea exploration and astrology that informed much of western civilization has       |  |  |
| 21 | never been sufficiently taught to students in traditional public schools; and                   |  |  |
| 22 | WHEREAS, The contributions of Black Americans to American history have been                     |  |  |
| 23 | limited to stories of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Rosa Parks and individual accomplishments     |  |  |
| 24 | from various black people in history often shared in a one-time celebration during Black        |  |  |
| 25 | History month; and  |  |  |

1 WHEREAS, The history of Black people in San Francisco is never taught in school 2 from the role of a Black man in founding the San Francisco Unified School District, to SFUSD 3 paying teachers less to work in "colored schools," to the Great Migration of southern Blacks to 4 the Bay Area to support the World War II effort, to the racist lending and hiring policies of the 5 federal, state, and local government, to how urban renewal policies removed Black residents 6 from their homes; and impact of African innovation, a historical narrative needs to be detailed specific to the Black community in school that stands alone from the more multicultural history that is taught in Ethnic Studies; and achievements of Black Americans alone can translate into a broader inspiration and motivation to achieve for Black students; and 22 Studies resolution centering on decolonizing and anti-oppressive pedagogy and a humanizing

23 framework for teaching students; and

WHEREAS, A 2016 Stanford Graduate School of Education study demonstrated SFUSD's implementation of Ethnic Studies boosted attendance and academic performance for students at risk of dropping out in high school and a series of working papers published by the National Bureau of Economic Research show that having just one Black teacher not only lowers Black students' high school dropout rates and increases their desire to go to college, but also can make them more likely to enroll in college; and

5 WHEREAS, There are a number of practitioners, programs, and school districts that 6 have implemented elements of a Black Studies framework and can be consulted for guidance 7 including (but not limited to): San Francisco State University's Africana Studies Department, 8 Black to the Future, the African American Achievement & Leadership Initiative, San Francisco 9 Human Rights Commission, Mega Black, San Francisco NAACP, OMEGA Boys & Girls Club, 10 San Francisco Alliance of Black School Educators, San Francisco Black Led Organizations 11 Coalition, Meadows Livingstone School, Kingmakers of Oakland, Ile Omode, Los Angeles 12 Unified School District, El Rancho Unified School District, Philadelphia Public Schools, Tyson 13 Amir, Jeff Duncan-Andrade, Shawn Ginwright, Urban Ed Academy, San Francisco Achievers, 14 and John Templeton; and

| 5  | Exploration of racist ideas and policies balanced with the presentation of                      |  |  |  |
